Federal Councillors Alana Moller and Wendy Hick attended the New South Wales ICPA State Conference on the 10 and 11 March in Hay.

With the conference theme of “Thrive in Isolation”, it was heartening to see the ICPA NSW be able to hold their 2021 conference following on from the challenges of 2021 and the enthusiasm and enjoyment of all in attendance was strong. There were 32 delegates from 16 of the 26 NSW branches participating at the conference and 180 attendees filled the room, with 81 motions presented for debate. The NSW AGM was held several weeks prior to conference in order to make changes to the constitution which needed to be in place before the conference. The AGM resulted in a full Council for NSW.

It was a thrill to witness the anticipation and excitement for the 2022 NSW Conference to be held in Bourke, so very fitting for their 50th conference milestone.
