

YOUTH ALLOWANCE OVERVIEW 2024

This information relates to regional and remote students intending to study full-time and intending to apply for Youth Allowance. It is current January 2024. It is a guide only – please visit www.servicesaustralia.gov.au/youthallowancestudent or phone the Youth and Students line Ph.132 490 for more information and assistance.

Everyone’s situation is different. To determine if you may be eligible for Youth Allowance, the Payment and Service Finder can be used to give you an idea of what assistance may be available and to estimate your rate of payment: www.servicesaustralia.gov.au/paymentfinder.

We encourage families not to self-assess their situation, and contact Services Australia for further information.

Aboriginal or Torres Strait Islander students may be eligible for ABSTUDY. ABSTUDY has different eligibility criteria to Youth Allowance. More information here: www.servicesaustralia.gov.au/abstudy.

YOUTH ALLOWANCE ELIGIBILITY
Residence rules	To qualify for Youth Allowance, students must be an Australian resident, and living in Australia on the day you claim your payment.
Age	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • 18-24 years and studying full-time • 16-17 years, studying full-time and need to live away from home to study, or are considered independent • 16-17 years, studying full-time and have completed year 12 or equivalent • 16-24 years and undertaking a full-time Australian Apprenticeship Note: students 25 years or over may be eligible for Austudy. More information here: www.servicesaustralia.gov.au/austudy
Course Requirements	To be eligible for a student payment, students must be undertaking an approved course at an approved education provider. Check which courses are approved here: www.servicesaustralia.gov.au/approvedcourses You also need to be studying full-time in your course or undertaking a full-time Australian Apprenticeship. Full-time study is defined by each education provider. You are considered full-time if you are undertaking at least 75% of what the education provider considers a full-time study load.
YOUTH ALLOWANCE AS A DEPENDENT STUDENT
YOUTH ALLOWANCE AS AN INDEPENDENT STUDENT
www.servicesaustralia.gov.au/youthallowancestudentdependent
Dependent or independent	If you are 21 years or younger, you are dependent unless you meet certain conditions that make you independent. This means your parents’ or guardians’ income affects if you can get a payment and how much you get. You are considered independent if you: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • are 22 years or older, or • meet one of the other independence eligibility criteria A full list of Independent criteria can be found here: www.servicesaustralia.gov.au/youthallowancestudentdependent There are special independence considerations for students in regional, rural and remote areas. Regional, rural and remote students may be considered independent (Self Supporting Criteria) if since leaving secondary school you have: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • earned at least 75 per cent of Wage Level A of the National Training Wage Schedule ($30,517 from 1 July 2023 and $28,859 from 1 July 2022), in a 14- month period since leaving school OR <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • worked part-time (at least 15 hours each week) for at least 2 years since leaving secondary school

		NOTE: This can include periods of overseas employment, periods on paid leave, periods of unpaid leave due to an employer being shut down that are outside the control of the customer, and periods engaged in a full-time Australian Apprenticeship or traineeship. AND <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • you are a full-time student and must live away from home to study; and • your family home is in an inner regional, outer regional, remote or very remote area using the Student Regional Area Search on the Services Australia website; and • your combined parental income is less than the parental income cut-off of $160,000 plus $10,000 per additional eligible child in the family aged under 22. For a family with two children the cut-off will be $170,000, and for a three-child family the cut-off will be $180,000 and so on. The parental income can be assessed using either: the tax year that ended before the student’s 14-month self-supporting period (usually the tax year that ended on 30 June during a student’s year 12); OR the base tax year; OR the current tax year. Other Self-supporting criteria: Full-time paid employment (an average of 30 hours or more per week) – customer needs to have worked at least 18 months within any two-year period. Where the work has not consistently been 30 hours per week it can be averaged over periods of a maximum of 13 weeks.

Income and Assets tests	https://www.servicesaustralia.gov.au/individuals/services/centrelink/youth-allowance-students-and-australian-apprentices/how-much-you-can-get/income-and-assets-test

If you are dependent, your Youth Allowance rate is calculated using either: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • the Parental Means test includes the parental income test and the maintenance income test. It is applied when first claiming a payment, and reassessed each year, or • the Personal Income Test – see below The Parental Income Test assesses combined taxable income, child support payments, fringe benefit tax entitlements, reportable super contributions, net investment losses and tax-free pensions and benefits. To receive the full dependent Youth Allowance payment rate, your parents’ income needs to be below the threshold (currently $62,634 in 2024). For income above the threshold, the amount may be reduced depending on whether they are required to live away from home to undertake study and how many children are in the family. This is called the Family Pool. The Maintenance Income Test considers how much child support or voluntary maintenance your parents or guardians get for you.	If you are independent, your rate is calculated using: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • the Personal Income Test, and • may be subject to the assets test. Personal Income Test – see below If you are working, you need to report your income. If you earn above $509 in a fortnight, your payment may be reduced. Personal Assets test You need to declare the value of your assets when you submit your claim, including any savings account balances. This may affect your payment. Partner income and assets If you have a partner, you may also be subject to a partner income and assets test.

Notes

- Customers facing financial hardship can contact the agency for urgent assistance, Ph. 132 490. Customers can also request to speak with a social worker for additional information and support.

- Young people, who normally live at home with their parent(s) and are transitioning from secondary to tertiary study can claim Youth Allowance as soon as they turn 18, or they complete Year 12, even if they have not been accepted into a course yet. The young person can provide their first course preference in their claim. If this changes, they must tell Services Australia within 14 days.
- People who have had a break in study e.g. they have taken a gap year and at the time of claim, can claim up to 13 weeks before their course commences. If they are unsure what course or which education provider they will be studying at in the following study period, they can provide their first preference until they receive their letter of offer from a university. If the accepted offer is not the same as the course advised in the claim, the young person must tell Services Australia within 14 days.
- Continuing students who have an “intention” to study full-time in the next available study period i.e. semester, can lodge a claim for Youth Allowance from the date they decide that they are intending to return to full-time study.

Once you know your new course details, you need to advise Services Australia within 14 days, so these details can be updated accordingly, and your payments can commence/continue uninterrupted. This can be done via your Centrelink online account – Manage study details. <https://www.servicesaustralia.gov.au/centrelink-online-account-help-update-your-study-details> Students must ensure they have provided Services Australia with all the supporting paperwork required for their claim, as any delay in supplying necessary documentation can lead to a delay in payment.

The following table is a guide to the type of information and documentation that is required for a Youth Allowance claim

ALL Youth Allowance applicant customers

Information and actions required from customers claiming Youth Allowance who are starting study or an Australian Apprenticeship.

Follow these steps to claim Youth Allowance for students and Australian Apprentices

1. Create a myGov account and link to Centrelink: www.servicesaustralia.gov.au/register
2. How to claim: Prove your identity: Supporting documents for Youth Allowance: <https://www.servicesaustralia.gov.au/supporting-documents-for-youth-allowance>
